

The Boy/The Girl

“Men [...] Between their acts and their ceremonies lies the world and in this world the storms blow and the trees twist in the wind and all the animals that God has made go to and from yet this world men do not see. They see the acts of their own hands or they see that which they name and call out to one another but the world between is invisible to them”

Cormac McCarthy - The Crossing

Why didn't you shoot the She-Wolf when you found her trapped?

Who's the person you carry in your heart?

Nature

Culture

Story Stones

